TSUULL University offers equal opportunity access to students regardless of ethnicity, religion, disability or gender. Selection procedures for academic programmes are entirely based on the selection criteria. The University undertakes educational outreach activities beyond campus, e.g. in local schools, in the community, including voluntary student run schemes on gender equality, women's rights, the disadvantages of getting married early, women entrepreneurship, social entrepreneurship, the role of women in global context and women's empowerment as well.

'Early marriage is a global issue. It is fuelled by gender inequality, poverty, social norms and insecurity and has devastating consequences all over the world. It happens across countries, cultures, religions and ethnicities. Moreover, it seriously harms the development and well-being of girls through limited education and employment opportunities and social isolation' – Gulnoza Jurayeva, TSUULL Women's Council Head

In 2021 University participated in the EU Training-Course which focused on gender-based violence prevention issues. With Volunteer Action for Change Kenya, WalkTogether, EKOgreece, ACD La HOYA, Alisher Navoi Tashkent State University of Uzbek Language and Literature (TSUULL University), Corporación Casa Mia & Recrearall we discussed strengthening the capacity of youth and youth workers in gender diversity.

'Gender has an impact on nearly every aspect of life and does play a major role in most of today's crucial discussions on equal opportunities and rights. Such interdisciplinary training-courses prepare youth to examine the complex constructions of gender throughout history and time as well as in different cultural contexts and social processes so that they can contribute to the positive impact of inclusion and gender diversity on the broader community' –

5 GENDER EQUALITY

Admitted Bachelor's degree students by gender (2020-2021)

Master's degree students' admission statistics (2020-2021)

The proportion of male and female students admitted

Overall, It can be seen from the graph that more women than men applied for all directions. Although the Computer Linguistics direction was usually applied by men, due to the TSUULL program named "Encouraging women in subjects where they are underrepresented".

It can be seen from the graph that the big number of students opted for Philology and teaching languages direction, female accounting for a massive 228, male being ten times fewer in number. The second big proportion is Uzbek Language and Literature direction, admitted female students are 218 and male students figuring for 32. The third famous direction among others is Translation theory and practice, again female students leading with 118 in total, only 32 male students were admitted to this direction.
