

Azizova
Ra'no
Axmedovna

---

PhD of Sociological Sciences

---

Ra'no Azizova is a PhD of Sociological Sciences and currently leads the Department of Physical and Legal Entities' Appeals Management, Monitoring, and Control. In her role, she is dedicated to advancing Sustainable Development Goal (SDG) 5, which focuses on gender equality and the empowerment of women. She actively promotes initiatives that support the representation and participation of women within the university community. Her leadership in the trade union also emphasizes creating a supportive environment for female staff and students, ensuring that their voices are heard and their rights are upheld in academic and professional settings.

---

In addition to her commitment to gender equality, Azizova is also an advocate for SDG 12, which emphasizes responsible consumption and production. She encourages sustainable practices within the university by implementing policies that promote eco-friendly behaviors and resource efficiency. Through workshops and training sessions, she raises awareness among students and faculty about the importance of sustainability in everyday practices. Her research, including her dissertation on the social factors affecting family stability in Uzbekistan, reflects her dedication to understanding and addressing societal issues through a sustainable lens.

---

---

By integrating these principles into her work, Azizova is helping to foster a culture of sustainability and equality within the academic community.

---