In a recent survey, it was found that 25 percent of the interviewed women reported drying and burning of the skin after using certain soaps, ten percent had eye and nasal pain after using certain perfumes, and eight percent had damaged lips after using certain lipsticks. The most common symptoms of allergic dermatitis are extremely dry skin and redness with swelling and itching. The products most likely to cause this condition are lipsticks, nail polishes, soaps, hair preparations, deodorants, and perfumes. Various drugs are being developed for the relief of allergy sufferers. However, your best help is to convert to a cosmetic product to which you have no harmful reaction. Remember that the product is not at fault or in any way harmful; it is your particular sensitivity to it that creates the problem. A line of hypo-allergenic cosmetics that are relatively free from substances that have been found to create allergic reactions is on the market.

19. The writer advises those with allergic reactions to ...

- A) change their cosmetics
B) complain to the manufacturer
C) avoid all cosmetics
D) stop using soap

20. It's likely that the aim of the survey was ...

- A) to get an idea of how women react physically to cosmetics
B) to support a legal claim for damages against a cosmetics company
C) to aid the drug manufacturers in their development of remedies
D) to test how well a particular brand of soap was selling

21. According to the passage, certain products cause allergies because ...

- A) the manufacturers use harmful ingredients for they are cheaper
B) the women overuse them by as much as 25 percent
C) certain people are sensitive to their ingredients
D) they are of very low quality

22. According to the passage, all statements are FALSE, EXCEPT ...

- A) All cosmetics are harmful to anybody who uses them.
B) Eight percent of women damaged lips after using certain lipsticks.
C) Nail polishes, soaps, and deodorants have more allergic reactions.
D) Twenty five percent of women had nasal pain after using certain soaps.

Researchers have found the world's oldest examples of bread. A research team from the universities of Cambridge, Copenhagen and London found ancient loaves of bread in Jordan. The researchers discovered 24 burnt loaves of bread. The loaves were hard burnt, that's why they survived for so long. The researchers dated the loaves roughly 14,400 years old. This means that people in the Stone Age baked bread. The researchers said humans made bread 4,000 years earlier than scientists thought. The people who baked the bread lived in Jordan from around 12,500 to 9,500 B.C. Stone Age people were gatherers and lived thousands of years before humans settled down to become farmers. They realized it was easier and more convenient to farm the wheat for bread instead of gathering it from the wild. Ancient people baked bread on a hot stone. The bread looked like the flat bread still made across the Middle East today. The researchers said the bread was the reason for agriculture and farming to start.

23. According to the passage, where were the loaves of bread found?

- A) in Copenhagen B) in London
C) in Cambridge D) in Jordan

24. According to the passage, why did the loaves of bread survive for so long?

- A) They were dark brown.
B) They were hard burnt.
C) They were twenty-four.
D) They were baked lightly.

25. According to the passage, what did the ancient people bake the bread on?

- A) on coal B) on a stove C) on a stone
D) on table

26. According to the passage, what did the bread cause to begin?

- A) agriculture B) technology C) collection
D) research

On 15 April 1912, the Titanic, at that time the world's largest and most expensive ocean liner, disappeared into the cold depths of the North Atlantic. About 1,500 people died, it had more losses than in any other sea disaster in peacetime history. After striking a huge iceberg, the 46,500-ton vessel sank in less than three hours. Lloyd's of London, the firm which had insured the Titanic, was sure that the probability of such an event was one in a million. At 11:40 pm on the night of the disaster, the watchman on the Titanic's bridge saw a shape ahead. "Ice! Dead ahead!" he shouted. The wheel was turned hard over and the engines were reversed, but it was too late. A 300-foot hole was torn along the side of the Titanic. If the watchman had not seen the iceberg and the wheelsman not turned the wheel, the Titanic would probably have struck the iceberg head on. It is then likely that only the bottom sections of the ship would have been flooded and, though seriously damaged, she would have remained on the surface.

27. All of the following statements are TRUE, EXCEPT
- A) The huge vessel did not even take as many as three hours to sink
- B) the Titanic was designed as an extremely expensive ship
- C) The Titanic sank in the northern part of the Atlantic Ocean
- D) Fewer people died at sea in this incident than ever before
28. According to the passage, Lloyd's insurance firm was sure that
- A) the Titanic could hold 1,500 people
- B) the Titanic would be flooded totally
- C) the Titanic was vulnerable to the iceberg
- D) the Titanic wouldn't hit an iceberg
29. When the watchman noticed the iceberg
- A) the ship was travelling at the highest capacity
- B) he took some time to inform the wheelsman of the danger
- C) it was already too late to prevent the hit
- D) the wheelsman were trying to put the ship into reverse action
30. According to the passage, it would probably have been better for the ship if
- A) the ship had been almost completely flooded
- B) the Titanic hadn't been so large and luxurious
- C) Lloyd's of London hadn't insured the Titanic
- D) the iceberg hadn't been seen before the accident
