Head of the Department of Distance Education

Jura Khudoyberdiyev

currently serves as the Head of the Department of Distance Education at Alisher Navo'i Tashkent State University of Uzbek Language and Literature. In this role, he is responsible for overseeing the development and implementation of the university's distance learning programs, ensuring that they meet high academic standards and effectively serve students across diverse regions. He coordinates online curriculum development, facilitates faculty training in digital teaching methodologies, and promotes innovative approaches to remote education.

Previously, as Secretary of the University Council, Dr. Khudoyberdiyev played a key role in shaping academic and administrative policies, supporting research initiatives, and enhancing the quality of education at the university. His leadership continues to foster collaboration among faculty and administration while advancing the university's educational mission.

A distinguished scholar in Turkology and the history of the Uzbek language, he has authored 119 scientific and methodological publications, including 14 books and numerous articles in prestigious international journals. His research has been recognized at conferences in Turkey, Kazakhstan, Russia, and Ukraine, reflecting his dedication to advancing Uzbek linguistics and preserving the country's linguistic heritage. Through his work, Dr. Khudoyberdiyev contributes to the global understanding of Uzbek language and culture and continues to inspire both current scholars and future generations.
